

Posted: January 28, 2015

School celebrates Family Literacy Day

St. Marguerite Bourgoeys Catholic School celebrated Family Literacy Day in a big way! Students were encouraged to bring in gently used books for a week. Then, on Family Literacy Day, students were invited to the activity room, where they had collected almost a thousand books, to pick out new ones. In addition, retired SMB staff were invited back for the morning to read to the primary students. Peter Owens, former principal, Sharon Egan, former teacher, Marilyn Murray, former Educational Assistant and Mary Aspen, a dedicated volunteer from years ago, all came back to read their favourite read-aloud book to the primary classes! There were lots of smiles all around, especially when we discovered that Mr. Owens, Miss Egan and Mrs. Murray all coincidentally chose the same read-aloud book called Norbert Nipkin by Steve Pilcher!